I am an Italian designer and a tireless worker, curious and result-oriented.

I was born in 1988 and I lived for 29 years in a little town next to Milan.

During my last experiences, I worked as a UI/UX designer, graphic designer and team leader. I mostly work with several Adobe's softwares and web tools. I practice design thinking every week with and for Non Profit business enterprises and I managed Wordpress and Bootstrap websites for exhibitions in Milan and all around Italy.

ATTITUDE

Achieving goals through analysis and problem solving skills, I have strong abilities to work both independently and in team, following the projects from the wire-framing phase to export the assets for the developers. My main field is the User Interfaces Design, from concepts of usability and accessibility to the actual graphic and user design.

My job wants me to achieve a strong personality, developing communication and coordination skills, to reach everyday a better team building attitude.

Available to travels abroad, I am strongly motivated by new opportunities for skills development and professional growth, especially in a practical and dynamic work environment

I speak Italian (mothertongue), English and during my free time I like to learn new languages as Spanish and Portuguese.

I also made my personal photography portfolio where you can find pictures of my last two trips in India and Ethiopia.

There is a work-in-progress website about UX Design Personas. It is a real people portfolio seen as potential user targets (Personas). They are the owners of non-profit organizations or using new and smart design methodologies to develop their projects in a different way.
